

Covid vaccination Q&A

Answering your questions on pregnancy and fertility

Wednesday 24 March, 2pm

Experts from NHS England & NHS Improvement (Midlands) and Birmingham Women's Hospital will talk about the Covid vaccination and how it affects men and women who are trying for a family or who are pregnant.

Speakers will include:

- Tim Davies, Public Health Consultant Lead for the NHS England & NHS Improvement (Midlands) vaccination rollout to talk about the importance of the vaccination programme
- Dr Justin Chu, Consultant Obstetrician and Gynaecologist (Reproductive Medicine) Birmingham Women's Hospital to talk about any impact on fertility
- Rachel Carter, Deputy Chief Nurse and Head of Midwifery, and Tracey Johnston, Consultant Obstetrician, Specialist in Maternal and Fetal Medicine and Deputy Chief Medical Officer at Birmingham Women's Hospital will address questions about vaccination during pregnancy or while breastfeeding

The experts will address concerns about fertility, pregnancy and breastfeeding and also answer questions from participants.

To secure your place, visit <https://cutt.ly/KzMQF4w>